The Album: A Musical Tapestry of Baroque Delights

This exceptional album presents a meticulously curated collection of sonatas originally written for recorder and continuo. With masterful interpretations by renowned flutist Laura Pontecorvo and guitarist Roberto Aussel, these compositions have been reimagined for flute and guitar, creating a vibrant and captivating soundscape.

The album opens with a delightful sonata by Georg Philipp Telemann, setting the tone for an enchanting musical journey. Telemann's intricate melodies and lively rhythms are expertly showcased, instantly captivating the listener.

We are then transported to the enchanting world of George Frideric Handel with his Sonata in F major. Pontecorvo's flute dances effortlessly over Aussel's intricate guitar accompaniment, creating a harmonious blend that perfectly captures the elegance of Handel's Baroque masterpiece.

The album continues with a vibrant sonata by Antonio Vivaldi, a true testament to his innovative spirit. The interplay between the flute and guitar is mesmerizing, capturing the essence of Vivaldi's dynamic and energetic compositions.

Listeners are then treated to a captivating sonata by Arcangelo Corelli, whose melodic lines are brought to life by Pontecorvo's expressive flute playing. Aussel's guitar provides a rich and supportive foundation, enhancing the emotional depth of Corelli's music.

Rounding out the album is a poignant sonata by Tomaso Albinoni, a composer renowned for his lyrical melodies. The flute and guitar intertwine seamlessly, creating a tapestry of emotions that transports the listener to a realm of Baroque beauty.

The Performers: Virtuoso Mastery and Exquisite Interpretation

The success of this album is undoubtedly due in no small part to the exceptional musicianship of Laura Pontecorvo and Roberto Aussel.

Pontecorvo's flute playing is nothing short of mesmerizing, showcasing her impeccable technique and profound musicality.

Aussel's guitar accompaniment is equally captivating, providing a solid rhythmic foundation while also adding intricate embellishments that enhance the overall listening experience. Together, they create a dynamic duo that breathes new life into these Baroque masterpieces.
